THE LION'S COUNTRY

C.S. Lewis's Theory of the Real

Charlie W. Starr

Phillippi, West Virginia

Foreword by Diana Pavlac Glyer

LITERARY CRITICISM / INKLINGS STUDIES

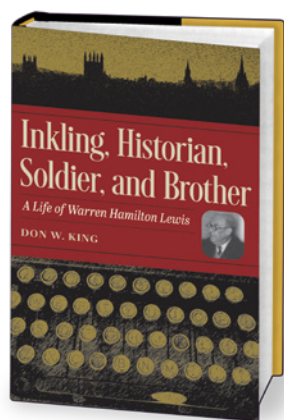

December 2022, 151 pp., 5½ x 8½

Paperback $19.95†, ISBN 978-1-60635-453-7

Drawing on C. S. Lewis's essays, sermons, and fiction, The Lion's Country offers a comprehensive exploration of Lewis's understanding of reality—important, Charlie W. Starr argues, to more fully understand Lewis's writing but also to challenge and inform our own thought about what constitutes the Real. Starr's unique look at Lewis's philosophical and theological underpinnings extends even to a discussion of heaven and what it would be like to see the face of God. Including a never-before-released passage from Lewis's unpublished "Prayer Manuscript," The Lion's Country is an essential contribution to Lewis studies.

Charlie W. Starr is professor of English at Alderson Broaddus University, visiting professor of Inklings studies at Northwind Seminary, and the author of The Faun's Bookshelf: C. S. Lewis on Why Myth Matters.

LETTERS TO LIZZIE

The Story of Sixteen Men in the Civil War and the One Woman Who Connected Them All

Edited by James M. Scythes

Mullica Hill, New Jersey

INTERPRETING THE CIVIL WAR: TEXTS AND CONTEXTS
CIVIL WAR HISTORY

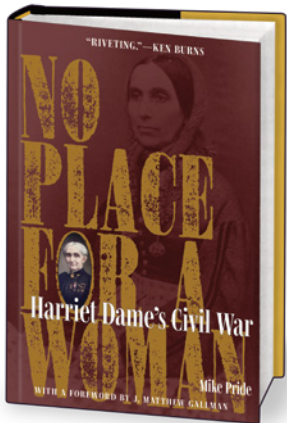

December 2022, 256 pp., 6 $\frac{1}{8}$ x 9 $\frac{1}{4}$

Hardcover $55.00s, ISBN 978-1-60635-452-0

These collected letters from the Civil War era were exchanged between 16 men—15 soldiers and a quartermaster at a military hospital—and one young woman, Lizzie Brick. Since Lizzie herself could not bear arms, she took up her pen and through ongoing correspondence helped these Union soldiers sustain their motivation for the cause. Letters to Lizzie contributes to our understanding of the connections between servicemen and their communities and the role that women played during the Civil War in sustaining these relationships.

James M. Scythes is assistant professor of history at West Chester University.

NO PLACE FOR A WOMAN

Harriet Dame's Civil War

Mike Pride

Bow, New Hampshire

Foreword by J. Matthew Gallman

INTERPRETING THE CIVIL WAR: TEXTS AND CONTEXTS
CIVIL WAR HISTORY

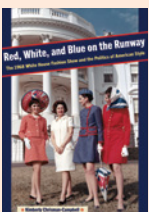

October 2022, 280 pp., 6 $\frac{1}{8}$ x 9 $\frac{1}{4}$

Hardcover $40.00s, ISBN 978-1-60635-451-3

“As he always does, Mike Pride gives us a living, breathing history. This is our Civil War from the inside out, carefully and artfully moving between the particular story of a heroic nurse and the larger fortunes of her regiment, the Second New Hampshire, as well as the Union Army itself. Riveting.”
—Ken Burns, filmmaker

In 1861, 46-year-old Harriet Patience Dame joined the Second New Hampshire Volunteer Infantry Regiment as a matron. She camped with the regiment on campaign, nursed its wounded after many major battles, and carried out important wartime missions for her state and the Union cause. This biography convincingly argues that in length, depth, and breadth of service, it is unlikely that any woman did more for the Union cause than Harriet Dame.

Mike Pride is a journalist, writer, and historian. He is the editor emeritus of the Concord Monitor, where he ran the newsroom for 30 years, and the retired administrator of the Pulitzer Prizes.
